SELASSIE MAKES FINAL APPEAL TO LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

"SAVE MY BROKEN PEOPLE"

HARSH INDICTMENT OF FIFTY-TWO NATIONS

Geneva, June 30.

Speaking with dignity, but the utmost bitterness, Emperor Haile Selassie to-day indicted Italy and the League of Nations alike when he addressed the League Assembly after Señor Cantillo, the Argentine representative, had eloquently pleaded for non-recognition of territorial acquisitions obtained by force.

Señor Cantillo pointed out that the Argentine was obliged to reconsider her membership in the League if practical universality of the principle of justice were secured.

Emperor Haile Selassie, in moving his declaration, relied upon the horrors of poison gas warfare, telling how this form of death was sprayed across a countryside by groups of nine to eighteen planes, exterminating soldiers, civilians and cattle, poisoning pastures and drinking water.

"To denounce these terrible tactics, nobody but myself, supported by comrades in arms who have seen them, would have been adequate here at Geneva. Hence I come to bear witness of this crime against my people."

The Negus emphasised that his efforts to unify Ethiopia had been backed by Italian machinations.

Long Preparation For War

Italy and been preparing for war for fourteen years, he said, but the situation would not have taken the development had it not been for a certain European country had not felt it necessary to obtain friendship with Italy. A state of war had really affected the whole case of events, he charged.

"When fifty-two countries here, in sober, including some of the strongest in the world, assured me that an invader would not be successful, had confidence the League would triumph," he said.

Unit Embargoes

After creating the embargoes, Ethiopia was getting supplies with full abundance of munitions, the Negus said. The fifty-two states had granted to Ethiopia for the Covenant.

careful all Italian proposals to betray and to betray my people declared.

I am ending the cause of the all nations," he insisted.

Apd No Sanctions

European countries, he said, applied no sanctions to Italy. Other Governments, claiming their adherence to principles, took every step those principles being put into practice. Ethiopian appeals for assistance were ignored.

"Is Article XVI?" the Negus demanded.

Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway was used by the Italians, he said, for military occupation.

"Is neutrality?" he questioned.

Important Issues

problem," he continued, was settled in this manner, of international morality.

Adel to the League to help and save my broken people, history will remember me.

It was one of the most the history of the Argentine spoke in Amharic, and were simultaneously over a multiphase system. It contains sixteen pages and expresses the conviction that the League is willing to collaborate in that work.

—Reuter.

Rome, June 30. The admission of the Emperor of Ethiopia to the meeting of the League Assembly has caused a bad impression in Italy, as it is regarded as a set-back to the Italian offer to co-operate with Europe and the League. —Reuter.

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY BATTLE

ITALIAN PRESSMEN REMOVED

FIGHT WITH USHERS

Geneva, June 30.

The press gallery demonstration directed against the Emperor of Ethiopia, which broke out at the session of the League of Nations Assembly to-day, was evidently an organised affair and dozens of journalists were implicated, including some of the best known writers in Italy, like Signor Ciani, President of the Fascist Journalists' Syndicate, and Dr. Capri, a professor of Milan University. All, doubtless, will be forbidden access to the League's chambers henceforth, though they will not be punished otherwise.

The demonstrators were subjected to considerable rough handling by the police and ushers who arrived to quell the disturbance, and of the ushers, a former European lightweight champion boxer, felled an Italian journalist who tried to prevent the removal of one of his colleagues.

During the brawl M. Niccolae Titicic, the President of the Assembly, stood up and shouted at the press gallery members to "leave their barracks savagery."

The Negus alone was not excited, though he looked on in wonder and was obviously little pained. —Reuter.

SEEKING LOOPHOLE?

Washington, June 30. The Under-Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips, will shortly leave for Italy to attempt to work out America's relations with Ethiopia without compromising the principle of non-recognition of territories conquered by force.

Both Italy and the United States attach great importance to the solution of the problem, as is indicated by the appointment of Signor Suvich, former Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, as Ambassador to Washington.

In view of the United States' reluctance to recognise the conquest of Ethiopia, an anomalous position would be created if Mr. von Engert, the American Minister at Addis Ababa, were accredited to the King of Italy, as the latter is also Emperor of Ethiopia. —Reuter.

SEVERAL ARRESTS

Geneva, June 30. Three or four people, including an Italian journalist, have been arrested in the public galleries of the League of Nations Assembly, following a series of scuffles.

An outbreak of boozing and whistling led to the summoning of the police, and loud applause greeted the arrest of the Italian. —Reuter.

TWO SMALL BOYS INJURED

ONE FALLS INTO BOILING TEA

Two small boys were involved in accidents yesterday, according to police reports.

Lin Lai, aged three years, living at 25 Circular Pathway, is lying in the Government Civil Hospital in a serious condition, following scalds received when the lad accidentally fell into a vat of boiling tea.

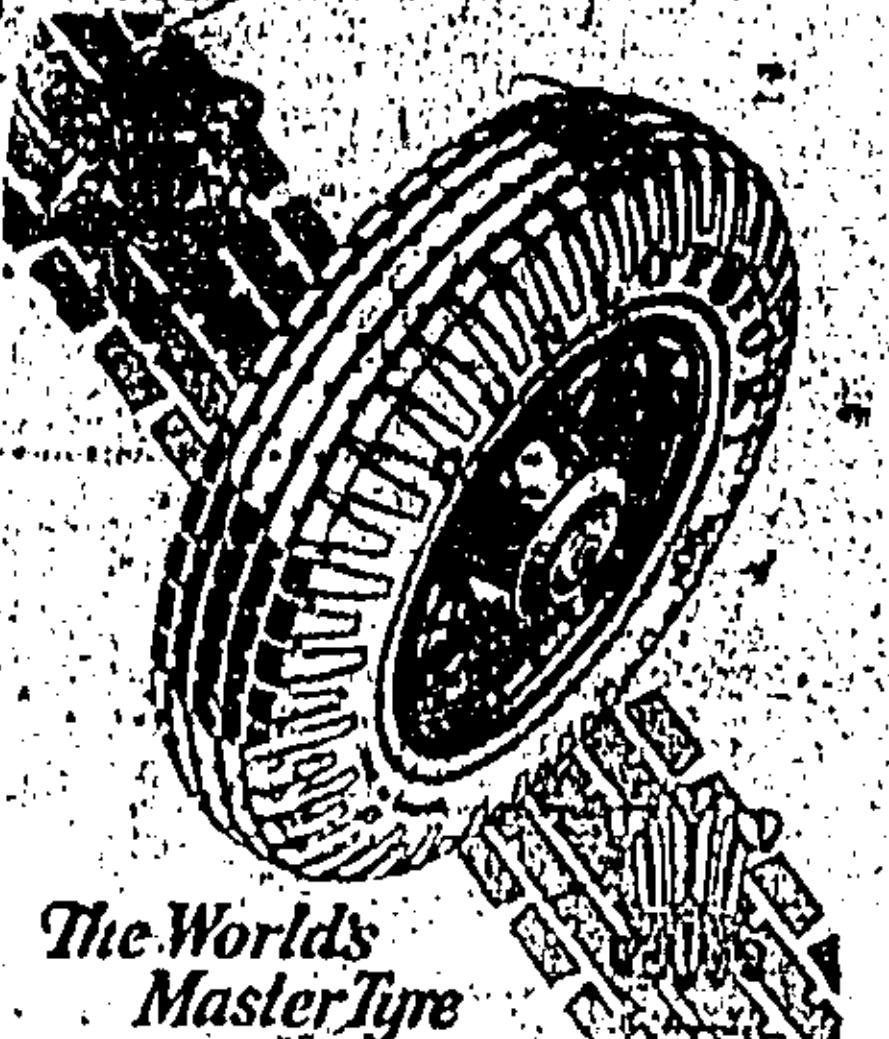

Another boy, Ng Lai-yu, of 4 Chung Ming Street, received injuries when he fell from a scaffolding at Tai Hang. He was removed to the Government Civil Hospital.

STRIKERS OCCUPY ALL PREMISES

EVEN CHURCH "OCCUPIED"

Paris, June 30.

Two curious stay-in strikes in France are reported.

At Toulons bank employees have occupied all the leading bank premises, in pursuance of a decision to strike for the same pay as that given to Marseilles bank employees.

The moment chosen was most opportune as this is the last day of the month when payments are due, but no salaries could be given.

Meanwhile, decorators at work on the English church at Montone are staying in, eating and sleeping in the church, despite the protest of the clergy, until their demands are met. —Reuter.

After inspecting the shore establishments, His Majesty boarded the torpedo boat, the first of twelve such craft built or building.

Experts believe that these craft, thirteen of which would cost less than one destroyer, may prove the Navy's answer to air attack, as their terrific speed and small dimensions would make them almost impossible to hit with a bomb from an aeroplane.

Each boat has torpedo tubes and depth charges and bristles with machine-guns. There are good quarters for a crew of five.

The King boarded the vessel at Portsmouth and she sped out into open water. As she increased her pace, great waves broke over her and her stern was almost submerged.

At Spithead the King stood beside the officer-in-charge as he fired a torpedo. His Majesty remained at sea for half an hour. —Reuter.

More Arab cars and hawkers are appearing on the streets, and it is rumoured that many shops are re-opening during the coming week-end.

On the other hand, the Arab leaders are apparently determined to continue the strike but it is generally thought that the increasing financial stringency, which makes the meeting of relief requirements most difficult, and the belief that the Arab terrorists' supply of ammunition is dwindling, will result in the leaders' objections being overruled. —Reuter.

ENGLAND'S FORTUNES VARIED

TENNIS UPSET AND GOLF SURPRISE

England suffered some varying fortunes on the sports field yesterday. They lost their last two ladies in the Wimbledon singles, but Tuckey and Hughes in the men's doubles, and White and Miss Whitmarsh in the mixed doubles afforded some compensation by winning.

St. Louis won a double victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates to-day.

The first was a freak win, two to one, although the Cardinals only hit three times to the Pirates' eight.

The game was without errors.

There was a good deal of luck in St. Louis' second win, for again seven hits yielded four while eleven hits gave Pittsburgh only three.

Pirates had two errors.

MOTORING PAGE

We set the money moving

LET us write about the new taxation that Government has imposed upon us in terms of cash. In other words, let us try to estimate the millions of dollars motorists spend on petrol, oil, licences, fines, garaging, and so forth, and then see what would happen if we were to suddenly stop using our cars.

We can give only approximate figures.

They are sufficiently impressive. They should be studied by all who are rather inclined to sneer at the expenditure of motorists, by the police who harass us, and by the Government who overtaxes us.

This, as usual, will be a record year for motoring. More cars are on Hongkong roads to-day than ever before.

Factories throughout the world have been working overtime making cars of all types to supply the increased demand from every part of the Empire.

There will be at least 4,000 new cars on Hongkong's road this year. The motor industry is experiencing a minor boom, due, no doubt, to the gradual ending of the depression.

It is estimated that given sunny weather, there will be an average of 4,000 cars on the roads during week-end days.

4,000 Cars

On an average each of the 4,000 cars will carry three people, making it total of 12,000.

The cars will consume about 16,000 gallons of petrol each week-end day. During the Summer we will pay over $4,000,000 for our week-end petrol alone.

Many enterprising caterers would like to start hedgerow buffets, such as the Dairy Farm buffet at the 1½ mile bench, where motorists, nearly always in a hurry, would be able to have a quick, light meal and get on with their journey.

But a buffet without alcoholic refreshment, is not much of an attraction.

Why not add to the attraction of a round-the-Territories drive for tourists by adopting the British law of the bona-fide traveller, who was allowed a drink at any hour if he could prove that he was on a journey?

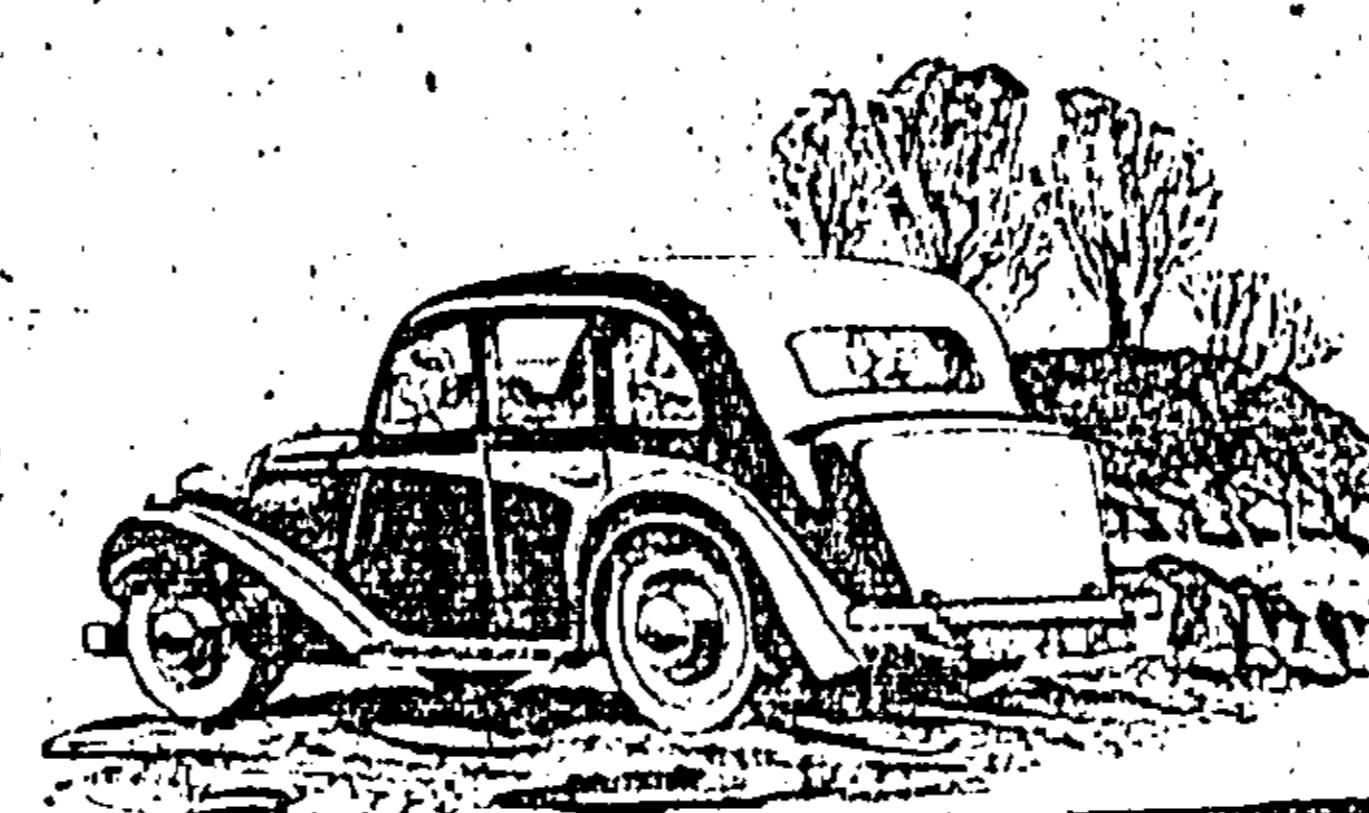

Famous Aces tell you how to drive: Norman Black on CORNERING

ON approaching corner brake in plenty of time. Do not wait until you get there. If, owing to the severity of the corner, the gradient of the road, the amount of traffic on the road at the time, or for any other cause, you have to change into a lower gear, do so before reaching the corner.

Get round "on the engine," so to speak. This means do not go round the corner, unless in exceptional cases, decelerating, but accelerating.

Even if it is not necessary to change gear, the same applies—brake early and accelerate. This is the principle we apply in motor racing. The man who tries to skid round corners rarely wins a race.

PROBLEM IV

DAPHNE'S AGE

[See—how quickly you can do this one. It ought not to take more than ten minutes.]

"It's a funny thing," said Daphne. "My mother's age is half the sum of my father's age and my age, and my father's age and my mother's age total 100, and both their ages are prime numbers."

"How old is Daphne?"
[A prime number is a number which has no factors other than the number itself and unity.]

PROBLEM V

A BRIDGE FOUR

Four friends made up a Bridge four: Admiral Acrenough, Lord Bidmore, Colonel Clubwell and Judge Deucifer. Five rubbers were played, the scores of which were 1,100, 800, 900, 400 and 1,700 points.

At the end of the evening, it transpired that the Admiral and Judge Deucifer had each won the same amount. The Judge, however, had won more rubbers than the Admiral. Colonel Clubwell was also a winner, while Lord Bidmore lost eleven times as much as Colonel Clubwell won.

What was the result of each rubber?

MARRIAGE: BY MAN WHO WAS A WOMAN

"I Shall Have To Get Used To My New Surroundings First"

PROBLEM: Do Air Women Lack Charm?

LONDON Air Reporter writes: Study the photographs of six famous women air pilots, read my camera-interviews with some of them, read what the others have accomplished. Then decide whether Harold Gatty, American round-the-world flier, now in Australia, was right when he said (as reported in "Telegraph" recently) that women pilots are lacking in grace and charm.

JEAN BATTEN, twenty-five-year-old New Zealander, came to England to learn music. Decided to fly instead. Flew alone in fourth-hand light plane to Australia and back; broke records each way. Crossed South Atlantic alone last year. Thus won Britannia Trophy.

AMY MOLLISON flew to Jane six years ago by long trip to Australia. Has since flown North Atlantic and broken England-Cape Hatteras record. Said: "I cannot help taking Mr. Gatty's remarks as a personal insult. I challenge him to any flight in my plane under any conditions HE cares to name."

DOROTHY SPICER, aged twenty-eight, air circus pilot. Since learning to fly in 1929 has taken every ground engineer's licence, seat which few men pilots can equal. Flying her daily job. Has never troubled about long-distance records. Is now in Campbell Black's travelling air circus with Pauline Gower. Between them ran their own flying business as engineers and pilots.

JILL WYNDHAM, blonde society girl. Smashed Cape-town-London flight record with David Llewellyn last year. Said: "Please introduce me to this man Gatty when he comes to England. I'll show him if we are lacking in charm."

AMELIA EARHART (Mrs. Putnam), known as "Lady Lindy" bears striking resemblance to America's air hero, Has flown North Atlantic twice, once alone, once as passenger. First lone flier to cross Pacific and, by 2,100 miles nonstop Mexico City to New York, married publisher who persuaded her to fly Atlantic as passenger.

PAULINE GOWER, twenty-six-year-old daughter of Sir Robert Gower, M.P., is a convent girl who learned to fly when she was twenty. Within a year had qualified for highly specialised commercial pilot's "B" licence.

Dominions' £250,000 Plan to Save "All Red" Shipping Route

WILL Britain give a lead to the Empire to keep the flag flying in the Pacific shipping trade?

British shipping circles are worried at the prospect that American subsidised competition will speedily oust British lines from vitally important Imperial routes between Canada, the United States, New Zealand, and Australia, unless subsidy aid is applied.

The figure suggested is £250,000 a year, which is roughly equal to the help enjoyed by the United States concerns.

A number of Dominions representatives will be conferring in London during this month on various matters affecting inter-Imperial trade.

Fiji's Support

They will include Sir Edward Beatty, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Mr. H. G. Menzies, Attorney-General of Australia, Mr. Earle C. G. Page, the Australian Minister for Commerce, Mr. Vincent Massey, the Canadian High Commissioner and Sir J. C. Part, High Commissioner for New Zealand.

It is believed in British shipping quarters that Canada, Australia and New Zealand, would be willing to consider providing quotas of a £250,000 subsidy if the British Government would adopt such a policy.

It is understood that Fiji would be a financial supporter of the scheme, in the interests of maintaining the "All Red Route."

MAY RETURN THE MEDALS SHE WON

IN ATHLETIC CONTESTS

M. MARK WESTON—until a few days ago Miss Edith Marie Louis Weston, a champion British woman athlete—is trying to solve two of the strangest problems ever faced by man or woman.

Should he retain the medals he won in women's British and international championship contests?

Can he continue his former relationships with his men and women friends as though nothing had happened?

Having lived for 30 years as a woman, Mr. Weston, as the result of two operations, has been certified to be a man.

IN GOOD FAITH

"I am not so much worried as to whether I shall have to return my championship awards," he said to-day in his mother's cottage at Oreston, near Plymouth.

I won them in good faith because I honestly believed at the time that I was a woman.

"But if I have to return them I shall do so without hesitation.

"I hope to continue my professional career, though now I shall be a masseur instead of a masseuse.

"Most of my former clients have told me they wish to continue to be treated by me."

ARM-IN-ARM

He was silent on the subjects of friendships and romance. So, too, was his particular friend of his womanhood days, Miss Mabel Bray.

They were walking arm-in-arm together when a newspaper correspondent met them.

Mr. Weston says it is much too early to think of marriage.

"I have, of course, a very great personal friend, a girl who has been my friend for many years," he added, without glancing at Miss Bray.

"During the past few days she has been absolutely indispensable, but the question of marriage is much too sudden.

"I shall have to get used to my new surroundings before I consider such a subject."

CHANGE OF SEX

Amazing Result of Two Operations

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT)

THIS is the amazing story of the well-known "woman" athlete, winner of international honours, who after 30 years as a woman has now become a man.

Up to two months ago "she" was wearing silk stockings and skirts. To-day, following two operations, "she" is wearing man's clothing. "She" has been medically certified to be of the male sex, and is faced with the problem of starting life all-over again.

The athlete whose sex has changed in this extraordinary fashion is Mary Edith Louise Weston, of Oreston, near Plymouth, who in 1924 won the British women's championship for putting the shot, retained the title for six years, and in 1927 won the British women's championship for throwing the javelin.

"Mary" Weston—now Mark Weston—recently returned home after seven weeks in Charing Cross Hospital, London.

Two operations were performed—one in April, and one at the beginning of last month.

As a result, Mr. Weston has received the following certificate:

"This is to certify that Mr. Mark Weston, who has always been brought up as a female, is a male, and should continue life as such." (Signed) L. R. Broster, Surgeon, Charing Cross Hospital.

With one hand in the pocket of his grey flannel trousers, and the other holding a cigarette, Mr. Weston was described as "in very unusual one" of the day, but am still under medical supervision.

"During the seven weeks I was in hospital I was in the men's ward, meeting with different men, talking and joking with them, and now the change from 'Miss' to 'Mr.' seems quite natural.

"I always had a deep voice and dark skin. I used to shave and use powder, but never lip-stick. Of course, I used to wear women's clothing, silk stockings, etc.

"I am the second of eight children, my mother being alive, but my father died some years ago."

Mr. Weston intends communicating with Somerset House to have the correction in the registration of his birth effected. "Mark" will be his Christian name in future, and he does not intend to enter seriously into athletic competitions.

Many complicated problems are facing him. All his friendships, for instance, are now on a different footing.

For years, as Mary Weston, he was very friendly with a particular girl. "We are still firm friends," he explained, "and shall continue to be so."

At Charing Cross Hospital, Mr. Weston was described as "in very unusual one."

Mr. Lennox Ross Broster, who signed the certificate, holds appointments at several hospitals, and in recent years has performed a number of operations on women who found themselves changing into men.

GLAND REMOVED

He has shown that in many cases the change can be reversed by removing one of the adrenal glands on the kidney.

Four years ago he described in a medical journal an operation in which he performed on a 22-year-old girl who found herself becoming a man.

One of the adrenal glands was removed, and the girl was restored to normality. A "beard" which she had been growing disappeared, and signs of womanhood returned.

Many remarkable sex operations have been carried out at Charing Cross Hospital, including, it was recently stated, no fewer than 25 men who were changing into women.

The operations on these patients restored them to normal womanhood.

It will be recalled that a few months ago a well-known Czechoslovakian "woman" athlete underwent a series of operations to change her sex.

Eventually "she" assumed the name of Mr. Karel Konbek. As a woman, this athlete competed in the women's World Games at the White

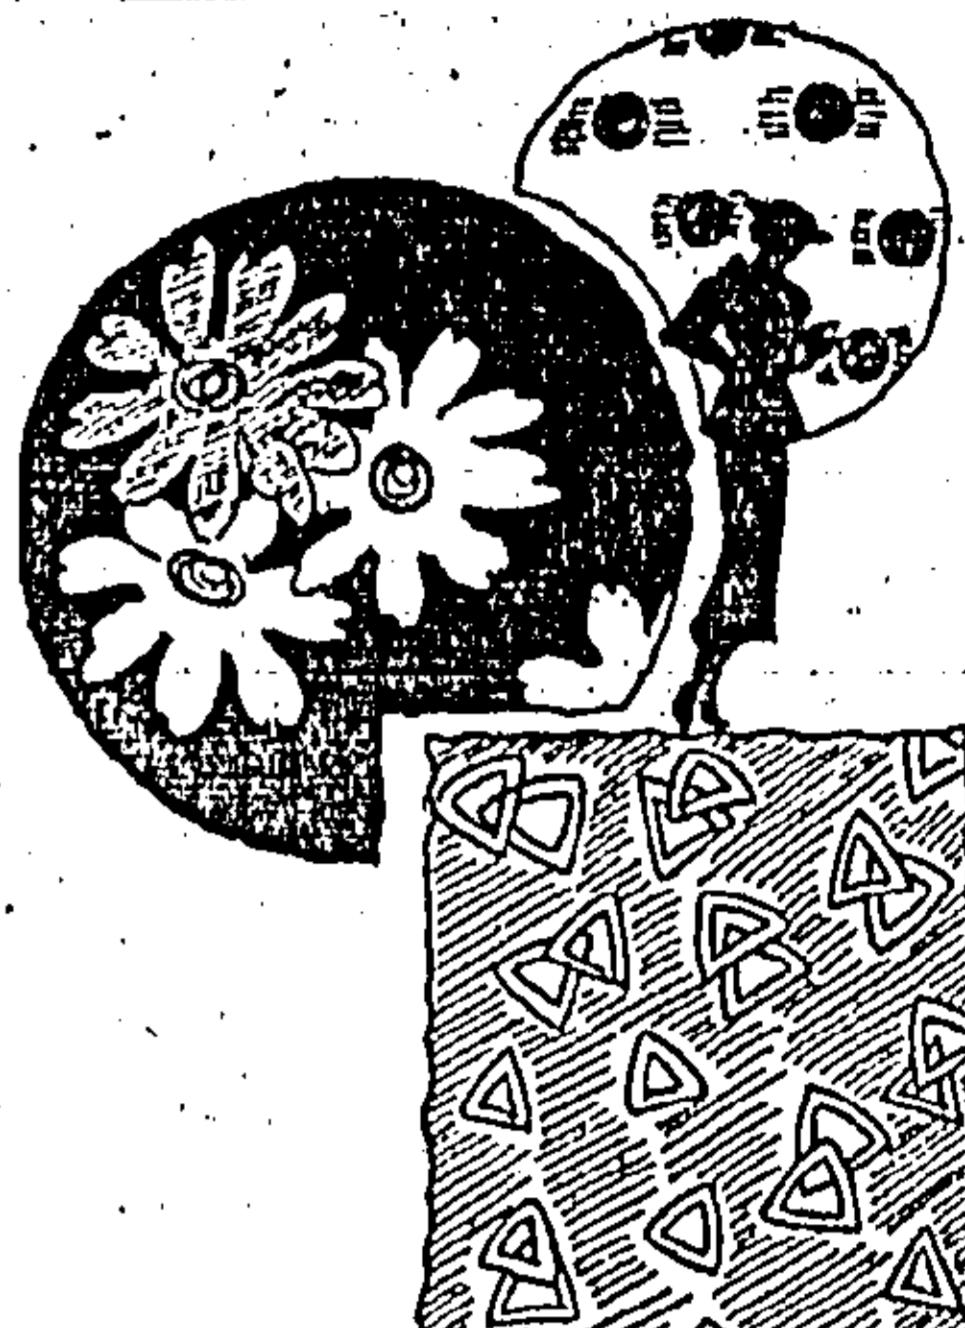

A new method in rescuing crews of wrecked vessels has been tried in Los Angeles. Instead of shooting a life-line by means of a rocket, a specially constructed gun is used.

CINEMA NOTES

As soon as a shooting date for "Nell Gwyn" showing at the King's Theatre to-day, had been decided upon by Herbert Wilcox, Anna Neagle, starring as Nell with Cedric Hardwicke as Charles II, was faced with the necessity of "falling up." Miss Neagle's normal weight is eight stone two pounds but Nell Gwyn was the Mae West of Merrie England and believed in curves. It was therefore necessary for Anna Neagle to put on several pounds before playing the part. Here are some of the foodstuffs which Anna Neagle resorted to, and which she heartily recommends to those who want to put on weight rather than lose it:—Porridge and cream, eggs and lavishly buttered toast for breakfast. A half-pint of milk morning and night. Potatoes baked in their skins and eaten with butter, at least twice a day. Chocolate after lunch. As much butter as possible at tea. Always some kind of pie or pastry at dinner. As far as possible Anna Neagle kept this diet going right through the production of "Nell Gwyn" and supplemented it with an additional ration of milk every afternoon to prevent any loss of her hard-won pounds through the exertion and nerve-strain of filming.

"The Voice of Bugle Ann"

Lionel Barrymore went on strike. He was working in a scene in "The Voice of Bugle Ann" in the episode where he comes home from prison, "You come into the bedroom," read the script clerk, "three years, hat on the bed."—"Holy Macabre," yelled the startled star. "Throw a hat on a bed—and especially on Friday the thirteenth." Never! But look following throwing a hat on a bed is one of the oldest of stage superstitions. Friday the thirteenth is another. So director Richard Thomas changed the scene and eliminated the Jinx. Maureen O'Sullivan and Eric Linden head the supporting cast in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which comes on Tuesday to the Alhambra Theatre. Also featured are—Dudley Digges, Charles Grapewin, Spring Byington and Henry Wadsworth.

Hopkins Adams, popular American author. In "In Person," Adams again turns to sophisticated comedy-drama, giving Ginger Rogers an opportunity to display her heretofore little-revealed talents in that direction. The story concerns the comic and romantic complications which develop when an egocentric actress falls in love with a haughty young man who refuses to accept her celebrated claims as an expert in her exhausting arrogance. In his mountain cabin he disciplines her, but it is not long before he reciprocates the actress' romantic urge. "In Person," makes the debut of Ginger Rogers as a solo star. "Personal Maid's Secret."

One of the most unique comedies that this reviewer has seen in many a long day, was shown at the Star Theatre yesterday under the title of "Personal Maid's Secret." The talented cast is headed by Margaret Lindsay, Warren Hull, Anita Louise and Ruth Donnelly. Miss Lindsay does a clever bit of acting as the ambitious wife who has the foresight to see that judicious spending will bring them contacts with business men and socially prominent families, which in turn means financial success. Warren Hull, former musical comedy and radio star, displays great talent in his first film role as the husband. Ruth Donnelly has the role of the maid who is the real inspiration behind the rise to fortune. Miss Donnelly, although she plays a semi-comedy role to start with, is given an opportunity in this picture to show her dramatic ability. Anita Louise, as her daughter, and Frank Albertson, play the romantic roles and are an unusually pleasing pair of screen lovers. Arthur Treacher is riotously funny as a stiff-necked butler who insists on patronising the maid, although quite in love with her. Others in the cast who do excellent work are Henry O'Neill, Ronnie Cosby, Gordon Elliott, Florence Fair and Maude Turner Gordon.

NEW INDUSTRY

GRINDING AUSTRALIAN WHEAT HERE

Within a comparatively short time Hongkong may have a new industry—flour milling. At present there are two Australians in the Colony who have spent the last few months looking into the position here, and it is their plan to return to Australia, gather capital and return to commence importing Australian wheat and milling it in works which they will construct here.

Mr. W. R. Watkins, the financial expert of the pair, and Mr. E. C. Julian, an authority on wheat and flour, have spent months studying conditions here, visiting mills already in existence in China and Japan, and they have come to the conclusion that there would be an immense market in Hongkong, South China, Manila and possibly the Malay Peninsula for flour milled in the Colony.

At present Hongkong imports from Australia no less than 1,007,839 piculs of flour annually, of a total value of almost five million dollars. Manila imports considerably more than this amount annually from Australia.

Pointing out some of the advantages to be gained by milling the wheat here rather than in Australia Mr. Watkins said yesterday to a Press representative that several sites were already under consideration for the erection of the mill and each was favourably placed from the point of view of unloading the wheat from ships and for forwarding it in the form of flour.

Other Products

The erection of the plant and buildings would cost only a fraction as much in Hongkong as it would in Sydney, while machinery brought from England or America to Hongkong would avoid the immense duty which is imposed on such material entering Australian ports. The labour in the completed mill, in the same way, would cost very little compared to the wages which must be paid in Australia where the minimum wage is over three pounds a week.

Australian capital to back the venture is not lacking and when Mr. Watkins and Mr. Julian leave the Colony at the end of this week and return to Sydney via Manila (where they will stop off for a short period) they will have the proposal at quite an advanced stage. They will both be returning in the winter months with concrete plans for the erection of the mill and the commencement of milling of Australian wheat here.

Besides milling the flour the mill will also be able to produce many subsidiary lines such as breakfast foods which at present have to come from America or Australia in a form extremely bulky and perishable.

Mr. Watkins and Mr. Julian have already placed a number of Australian products on the market here and are marketing back with them a number of Chinese products to place on the Australian market.

Saw Rennie's Machinery

"We plan," said Mr. Watkins yesterday, "to form a trading company the aim of which will be reciprocal trade. Australia is confined to exporting primary products almost without exception, while she can probably import from China only manufactured goods. We have found that in the last few years Chinese goods have increased very much in quality and many lines which we looked at in Japan we found were produced more cheaply and were of a better quality in China."

While in Japan Mr. Watkins spent a lot of time inspecting flour mills, and by a strange coincidence found the mill which was using the machinery originally installed in Rennie's mill. The last venture of this sort which was undertaken in Hongkong. The Australian pair have thoroughly investigated the venture of Rennie, who many years ago built a large mill to grind wheat in Hongkong, but failed. His failure, they state, was due to over speculation and his inability to buy wheat at a world parity price. He bought mainly from America. To-day wheat all over the world costs practically the same to all millers, and in Hongkong the Australian wheat would have a slight advantage owing to freight rates, while the cost of milling here would be considerably less than almost anywhere in the world.

WOMAN'S DEATH

VERDICT OF SUICIDE AT INQUEST

'WARE WHITE ANTS

EXPERT GIVES EVIDENCE ON GRAVE MENACE

Hongkong Rotarians were regaled to a treatise on the greatest menace to human life and property at their weekly luncheon yesterday, when Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen, sitting as Coroner, at the Kowloon Magistrate yesterday afternoon.

The speaker said the cockroach was the filthiest insect which contaminated food while the depredations of the white ant were one of the gravest menaces to the safety of buildings.

At the opening of the session the President, Mr. W. N. Thomas Tam, welcomed Rotarian T. B. Wilson on his return from long leave.

Rotarian Wilson, warmly acclaimed by those present, said he was glad to return. Since he left six months ago, he had been running foul of Rotarians continually in his travels (Laughter). He had visited many clubs and at Scalite he was presented with a totem pole souvenir by the visiting member from the most distant club. Though he knew little about totem poles he recognised so many familiar faces in its carving that he felt quite homesick. (Laughter).

He congratulated the Club on its new officers and looked forward to the continued activities of the Club under the new President.

The President welcomed the following guests: Rotarian E. B. Cromwell, West Point, Mississippi; Messrs. M. Symon, W. A. Butterfield, W. L. McKenzie, and J. D. Danby, Hongkong.

The speaker, Mr. T. Cowan, said he had great experience in dealing with white ants in Australia; but when he came here he thought he was in the Garden of Eden—so much of the fruit had already been eaten! The ants were supposed to work only in the summer and to confine their activities to the roofs of houses. In his research here on 60 houses he found that they not only attacked the body of houses, floors, etc., but also worked in the winter though not to such a great extent.

Before deceased died, she had been rather short-tempered and this was unusual. Deceased also took little food, and appeared irritated.

On the morning of June 10, deceased had left the hut to go to Tsimshatsui, and had returned about 6 p.m. After their evening meal, witness' son went out and the rest of the household retired.

A Child's Distress

Witness was awakened about 10 p.m. by the crying of the baby boy, who slept in the same bed as witness. Witness called to the child's mother, but received no reply. She then took the child along towards deceased's cubicle, and outside it she gave another call. On receiving no reply, witness pushed open the sliding door and found her daughter lying in bed. A cord was tied around her neck, and the other end was tied to a rafter. Deceased's feet were about four inches from the floor.

Witness placed the child she was carrying on a bed in the front cubicle and hastened back to the room. She tried to undo the knot around deceased's neck, and after some difficulty, she succeeded in doing so. She gave a call and her husband came to her assistance with some Chinese medicine. A little later, witness' son returned home, and he went with witness to report the matter at the Shamshui Po Police Station. Witness could give no reason for deceased having done away with herself, and could only say she committed suicide.

Lau Chuen, husband of deceased, and a watchman employed at the Children's Playground, Tsimshatsui, said he was on good terms with her. For a month before her death, she had appeared to be irritable and angry for periods of three or four days at intervals. Before witness left the house that night, deceased had complained of a headache.

The father-in-law of deceased, Lau On, also gave evidence, after which Sergeant Forrest deposed to proceeding to the scene and finding the body.

The Coroner said the jury should have no difficulty in returning, on the medical evidence, the cause of death as asphyxiation due to hanging, and that deceased hanged herself. The fact that she suffered from pneumonia prior to her death was also a cause of her death.

The jury agreed unanimously with the Coroner, and joined with him in expressing their sympathy to the family of deceased.

Specimens of the ants were passed round by the speaker for examination and from a sketch he illustrated the founding and growth of a colony. Each swarm of ants contained about three fertile queens and these were taken care of by fertilising ants known as the soldier ants. It was the soldier ant who made the initial cavity in which the queen laid her 60,000 germs each day and he superintended the storage of excreta and the work of the "nurses" who looked after the little ants in their early stages.

Another class of ants in each colony were known as the workers and it was their job to go out each day along the well-worn cavities and secrete a portion of wood extract to bring back to the colony as food. The home was kept at a constant temperature of 80 degrees by the fungus-like excreta and the queen continued to lay her germs while the soldier ant, like some insect capitalist, superintended the well-running of the home, spurred the workers on to their tasks and looked after important questions of defence.

If a channel was broken and the stream of ants became confused it was the soldier ant who showed them the circuit round the obstruction; if attack threatened he signalled by thumps on the floor to the workers to make suitable preparations.

In reply to questions the speaker said the flying ant of Hongkong was certainly related to the white ant. What happened was that male members of a colony would occasionally swarm and fly blindly round until by chance they contacted with a queen ant. In that case they founded a colony with her but if they did not make contact they died within a few hours. The fact that, though blind, they were attracted by a light was a matter of instinct; but a householder seeing millions of these white ants in his house on any particular evening need not think that the ants had come to stay. If there was no queen ant in the vicinity the whole lot would die before morning.

Rotarian W. A. Cornell thanked the speaker for his address and assured him that if he could do anything to alleviate the problems which these insects presented in Hongkong his fortune was undoubtedly made.

Now schemes for help were submitted by Colonial Governments and £730,000 actually issued.

Aid had been given in a great variety of needs, including inter alia the construction of roads, bridges, hospitals, factories, the provision of water supplies and research into tropical problems, ranging from cold storage for bananas, to ravages of monkeys in coffee crops—British

RANDALL GETS TWO YEARS

TWO CHINESE ALSO GAOLED

Denouncing the conspiracy as one of the most abominable crimes which could happen in the Colony, His Honour Sir Atholl MacGregor, Chief Justice, at the Criminal Sessions yesterday passed sentence on three men found guilty of attempting to bribe Revenue Officers to refrain from interfering with opium traffic.

On behalf of Randall, Mr. Sheldon said he had already pleaded guilty on the second charge, the giving of the bribe, and he did not intend to address his Lordship and the jury further.

In a short address to the jury, Mr. Williams emphasised that the Crown case was that the first accused was the person who originated the conspiracy. He said there was no question of a trap being set by the Revenue Officers because the suggestion of the money came originally from the accused.

In his summing-up to the jury, his Lordship reviewed the evidence given both for the Crown and the defence.

Verdict of Guilty

After considering their verdict for 20 minutes, the jury returned unanimous verdict against all three defendants.

Mr. Sheldon, interposing before sentence was passed, referred to the speech of the Assistant Attorney General in which he said the information as to opium divans in the Colony given to the authorities by Randall was not a matter for the jury but for consideration in passing sentence. Randall had said that he was obtaining this information for the Treasury Department of the United States and this was corroborated by two witnesses, one of whom was Mr. Campbell who had sent certain of the evidence to his Government. Counsel submitted that Randall should be given the benefit of the doubt that his object was not to make money out of opium but out of his business as an informer.

His Lordship said his difficulty was to see how it could profit anyone of the U.S. Treasury Department, the accused, or anyone else that a state of things should be brought about whereby the Chinese members of the Revenue Department were in receipt of bribes from, and were under the thumbs of persons in the self-styled position, say of Leung Yau anxious to engage in traffic of dangerous drugs which would be extremely difficult if he had not the aid of Revenue officers.

Mr. Sheldon said he agreed that his client's actions were foolish but there was evidence that he wished to pass on information as to what drugs were being shipped to the United States.

His Lordship: That information is a matter for the U.S. Treasury.

Judge's Comment

In passing sentence, his Lordship said, "It is not often in a Criminal Court such as this that such a diabolical plot is brought to light and satisfactorily prosecuted to conviction. Though I have listened to Mr. Sheldon and attached due weight to what he has thought it his duty to say on behalf of Randall, I should be lacking in my duty to the public if I did not signalise my sense of the gravity of this case by passing on him a sentence commensurate with the abominable nature of the conspiracy. I find it difficult to imagine anything worse, because not only was the primary object to seduce from their allegiance to the public service, not one or two, but many respectable and responsible public officials; but I cannot overlook the fact that the inevitable consequences of the first part of the conspiracy would have been that this Colony would have been flooded with soul-destroying drugs. I would like before passing sentence to express my very high appreciation of the conduct not only of Chief Chinese R.O. Mo Kang and R.O. Tam Wei, who gave evidence, but of all the Revenue Officers, who had anything whatsoever to do with this case. It is a matter of great congratulation that the result of their training and conscientious feeling was so strong as to prevent them being drawn by such a large sum from the real service they are doing to the public."

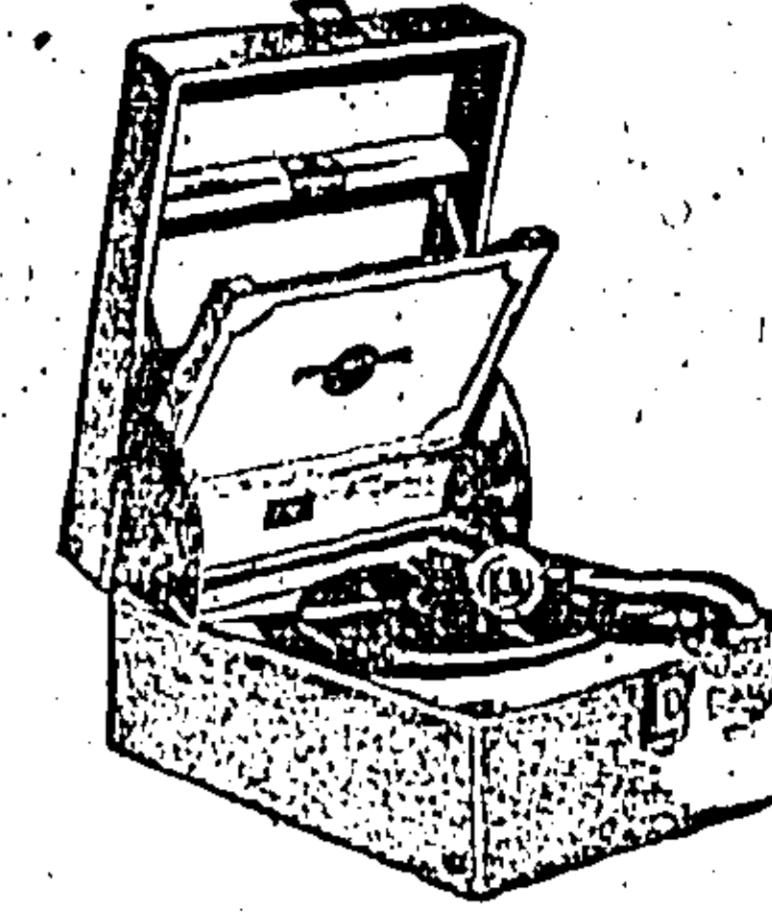

"Randall, I have to sentence you on two counts. Perhaps fortunately for you I can only regard them as two angles of the same offence, so the sentences will run concurrently. You will go to prison for two years with hard labour, in each count, the sentences to run concurrently."

"Leung Yau, it may only be a fortunate accident for you that you have not appeared quite so blithely in those dreadful transactions and I hope that the sentence of 10 months' hard labour, which I am passing, will be a lesson to you."

"Leung Yau: I cannot find anything to say for you. You will go to

HOME POLITICS

The recent resignation of Mr. J. H. Thomas from Parliament and from his post as Secretary of State for the Colonies has caused a further diminution of the "National" status of the Government, since his place has been taken by Mr. W. G. A. Ormsby-Gore, a Conservative. There was an expectation that Mr. Baldwin would find another National Labourite to fill the vacant seat, but it would seem that the Premier's Conservative followers, who have been pressing for drastic reconstruction of the Cabinet, have induced him to give way on the point. Quite recently, the Times confessed the "National" Government facade was "beginning to wear a little thin," and it has since lost a further coating of its veneer as the result of the substitution of Mr. Thomas by a Minister of decidedly Conservative views. In some quarters it has been urged that Mr. Baldwin should, out of a realisation of the fitness of things, drop the pretence of leading a "National" Government and be honest enough to admit that his Administration is not and never has been anything else but a Conservative Government. Certainly the "Simonite" Liberals are Conservatives in everything but name, while the National Labour camp followers are a mere handful who have retained their seats by Conservative support and whose leader had to seek refuge in a safe Conservative seat after being defeated in an industrial constituency. The Prime Minister cannot, of course, have any illusions about the "National" pretence, but, having won the election on that basis, he cannot automatically change the label. The time to have done that was at the General Election. Meanwhile, the expected retirement of Mr. Baldwin, after the Whitsun Recess, has not eventuated, although there are grounds for thinking that it will not be long delayed. A few weeks back, the Times remarked that "there was a good deal of sympathy with the wit who pointed the contrast between the Japanese, imagining their Premier to be murdered till in the course of time he turned up alive, and the English, supposing that they had a Prime Minister till it was discovered after some weeks that he had really been dead all the time," adding that "even Mr. Baldwin's most devoted admirers were driven to admit that his silence at LAST month Professor Freud, of Vienna, was eighty years of age.

He is the man who discovered psycho-analysis, the science of the study of the mind.

He has given us, directly and indirectly, phrases such as "inferiority complex," "unconscious mind," "wish fulfilment," such words as "inhibitions" and "repressions."

Here is a questionnaire based on the findings of psychological analysis, specially designed to give a key to character and prospects of happiness provided you are completely honest in your answers.

It has been set by a practising psychiatrist, who will in a further article to be published shortly give a key to the whole thing. Cut out this page and write down your answers, or at least remember them for comparison, so that you will have clues to a working basis for making the best of yourself and your life.

In situations that have not occurred to you, try to feel yourself into the situation to get the appropriate answer.

In questions where there is a single choice, put the figure 1 enclosed, in a circle opposite your choice, and score through the others. Where there is a second and third choice, put the appropriate figure 2 or 3 in a circle opposite your choices and score through the others.

certain critical moments had given some excuse for this morbid myth." This comment reflects, to some extent, the fairly prevalent demand amongst a certain section of the Conservative Party for a change of leadership, although again and again Mr. Baldwin has managed to overcome revolts within his party. That he has rendered splendid service to his nation is undisputed, but there is a feeling that, having borne the brunt of the battle so long, and now naturally showing signs of tiring, he should hand over the reins of office to a younger man. The change may soon come, but when it does there will be no two opinions, except amongst extremist elements, that Mr. Baldwin has proved himself a great asset to the nation during times of almost unexampled stress and strain.

OLD CITY LANDMARKS TO GO

Telegraph Special Representative

In the course of the next ten days demolition of two familiar landmarks in the City will be started.

The remains of the old City Hall, for a short time the temporary home of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, have been turned over to the breakers, although not completely. Bank House, at St. John's Place, is to undergo a similar experience, but in this case the building will be entirely razed.

The southern part of the City Hall will be left standing, and, temporarily at least, this section will house the City Library and one of the central Sanitary Departments on the ground floor when the necessary repairs and improvements have been effected.

The first floor will be taken up with the Chater Collection of pictures, which will be locked up and will not be open to public view. It is understood that to put the collection on view, with the necessary guards, extra employees and appropriate setting would entail considerable expense, and it is this reason which has prompted Government to retain the southern section of the City Hall for the library.

An enquiry was made recently as to when the City would be better accommodated in this respect and the reply was that no financial provision could yet be made for a better library.

Opposite the City Hall is the site of the old Beaconsfield Arcade, a vacant area which the Government would be glad to dispose of, it is understood.

Bank House is another building with a long history, but of late years it has fallen into decay. Formerly the residence of Managers of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, it stands on spacious grounds opposite the lower Peak Tram Station. It is doubtful whether anything will be done with the property for some time after the house has been demolished but it is fairly certain that Government will take advantage of this opportunity of widening the road at this point.

ANCIENT BUILDING

The old City Hall, a portion of which is still to be retained, was completed on June 28, 1869, and was opened in November of that year by Prince Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh. It continued in existence, in its original form, until the greater part of the site was purchased by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, for its new building, when it was, save for the part still standing, demolished.

It was built by public subscription on land granted by the Government, the idea of providing a civic centre having originated at a meeting held in the Hongkong Club in 1861. The foundation-stone was laid in 1867 by Sir Richard Maudell, the then Governor.

The Theatre Royal portion of the building was "christened" on November 3, 1869, when the first performance was given there by the Amateur Dramatic Corps (as the A.D.C. was then known) and members of the German Club Concordia. A reference to a Library and Museum (then a mere nucleus) was made in a report of a meeting held in 1870.

In front of the City Hall there used to be a rather striking fountain, which was given to the "people of Hongkong" by Mr. John Dent, a merchant, the head of a now defunct firm bearing his name. This fountain was demolished at the time of the pulling down of the major portion of the City Hall to make room for the Bank's new premises, and has not been re-erected elsewhere.

The battleship Koenig Albert, once the pride of the German Navy was scuttled by her crew at Scapa Flow in 1918. She is now lying upside down in Rosyth Dockyard, Scotland, where workmen are scrapping her.

Singapore Robs Us of A Record

WE CAN'T BOAST NOW ABOUT SUMMER

FOR years Hongkong people have been able to sniff contemptuously when weather is mentioned by an "outsider".

A sort of gloomy pride has, in the past, attached itself to the long-cherished belief that, when anything will be done with the property for some time after the house has been demolished but it is fairly certain that Government will take advantage of this opportunity of widening the road at this point.

Shanghai may have the longest bar, or the most beautiful bevy of cabaret girls, and Singapore may be the place where they invent gin-slings. Manila has always been the home of American freedom and didn't Macao win the coveted right to be called the Oriental terminus for the forthcoming trans-Pacific air service?

Taking it all in all, Hongkong hasn't many things to boast about compared with other civic centres in the East. Except, of course, the weather.

Now even the honour of having the hottest, most humid, sweltering and ghastly climate is denied us. Singapore has stepped in with counter claims.

Humidity? In 1931 the Singapore average was 81. Hongkong was two per cent lower. In 1932, Singapore's average was 80; Hongkong's only 77. In 1933, Singapore boasted a mean annual

25 Cents

A Year To—

Regulate Size Of Families

Washington, June 28. MRS. MARGARET SANGER has returned from a tour of Hongkong and China, with a new formula for regulating the size of families for 25 cents a year.

Mrs. Sanger hopes the formula eventually will be the answer to present bans against dissemination of birth control information.

It may also, she said, be "the answer to the social workers' prayers, and to refusal of the American Medical Association to help change the laws."

The chemical formula—which she did not reveal—was tested by Florida physicians for a year with good results. In China and India, she said, clinics tried it on larger scale and found it efficacious.

The formula will not be made public, she said, until it is further tested. A year's supply for one married couple would cost only about 25 or 30 cents. It has a rice starch base, she revealed.

"I have tried for 20 years to corral people into their doctors' offices to learn about birth control because I have always believed that birth control is individual and that each woman should consult her physician on her own needs," Mrs. Sanger said.

She criticised the A.M.A. medical committee for going into economics to say there is no evidence to justify the broad claim that dissemination of contraceptive information will improve the economic status of the lower income groups."—United Press.

Air raid peril to big cities was emphasised by Firemaster Peter Methven, of Edinburgh, in his presidential address at the Professional Fire Brigades' Association conference in Edinburgh this month.

He said: "With a certain gain, the entire population of cities such as London, Edinburgh, and Sydney could be choked to death in three hours."

"Fire brigades would be powerless against organised air raids. Their only duties would be saving of life and extinction of fire."

"Pandemonium produced by air bombing requires a co-ordination of forces and economy of effort, which can only come from centralisation."

"This requires firmer steps by the Government, with committees for fire, police, and medical work."

"The Government should also see that an adequate water supply is available."

ENGLAND'S GLOOMY DAY AT WIMBLEDON

OUT OF WOMEN'S SINGLES

Sperling v.
Jacobs
Final Likely

June 30, 1936 will go down in the Wimbledon annals as "Gloomy Tuesday" for the British Empire. And this is why:

Miss Dorothy Round, popularly expected to regain the women's singles title, was beaten by Miss H. Sperling.

Miss Katherine Stammers, England's equal No. 1 ranking player lost to Miss Jedzrejowska of Poland.

Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist of Australia, holders of the men's doubles championship, were beaten by Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon of France.

H. G. N. Cooper and R. K. Tinkler, a foremost English pair fell victims to the Japanese-American combination of Itch and Cunningham.

Not all of these results were surprises. The defeat of Crawford and Quist is well nigh deserving to be ranked as sensational, while the elimination of Dorothy Round was a distinct upset.

But the defeat of Kay Stammers was always possible, if not probable.

NO REPRESENTATIVE LEFT

The net result is that England has no representative left in the women's singles, while Hughes and Tuckey are now the only combination capable of stopping the men's doubles title from going either to France or America. The semi-finalists in the women's singles are:

Miss Helen Jacobs (America).
Miss Jedzrejowska (Poland).
Miss H. Sperling (Denmark).
Miss Mathieu (France).

and they will meet on Thursday night.

Miss Jacobs v. Miss Jedzrejowska.

Miss Sperling v. Miss Mathieu.

MIME SPERLING'S CHANCE

Nothing is certain at Wimbledon; nevertheless there appears to be fairly long odds that Miss Jacobs and Miss Sperling will be the finalists. If so, they will meet again after a fairly lengthy interval. One of their earliest matches was in 1931 when Miss Sperling (or Fr. Kralivinske in she was then) beat Helen Jacobs in the Wimbledon semi-final 10-8, 6-0, 6-4, afterwards going down to defeat in the final at the hands of Fr. Gicely Australia, her countrywoman.

Two years later Miss Sperling again faced Miss Jacobs in the Wimbledon semi-final, but this time Miss Peggy Scriven but losing to Mrs. Hale-Wills-Moody. In 1934 she was put out in the third round by Joan Hartigan of Australia, but last year again reached the last four, losing to Miss Jacobs 6-3, 6-0.

Miss Mathieu is another player who has figured consistently in the semi-finals during the last six years. She reached this stage in 1930, 1931, 1932 and again in 1934. But she has never contested a final. If she and Miss Jedzrejowska should win to-morrow, Wimbledon will see entirely new finalists.

DOROTHY BREAKS A SHOULDER STRAP

Incident On Court

London, June 30. A broken shoulder strap is attributed by United Press as being a very decisive factor in the remarkable defeat to-day of Miss Dorothy Round, England's chief hope for the women's title at Wimbledon.

With Miss Sperling leading three-love in the second set (having won the first at 6-3) Miss Round broke a shoulder strap.

She fixed things up with a strap borrowed from a spectator, but this immediately broke.

Miss Round then asked permission to retire to the clubhouse for "repairs," but Miss Sperling refused to accede to the request.

Miss Round was clearly netted, but she rallied fiercely to win three games in a row and to draw level at three-all.

But the effort cost her a lot and she tired quickly after this, serving a double fault at match point.

England's hopes of winning the women's title were finally blotted, says United Press, when Miss Jedzrejowska of Poland defeated Miss Stammers with surprising ease.

Miss Helen Jacobs had the fight of her life to beat the Chilean champion, Senorita Anila Lizarza over three sets. Miss Jacobs continued to play variable tennis and is still off form.

Miss Dorothy Round (left) beaten yesterday at Wimbledon and Miss Helen Jacobs, who reached the semi-final after a hard match.

LATEST WIMBLEDON RESULTS

Lending results in yesterday's Wimbledon programme were as follows.

Glorious Henley Tomorrow

London, June 30. The weather is not very promising for the Royal Regatta which is beginning to-morrow at Henley.

Nevertheless there is a record number of entries which total 121. The title of the meeting is the Grand Challenge Cup event in which the Japanese Olympic crew, and the Zurich threaten Britain's leading club.

The Japanese, who have been stroking higher than anything seen previously in England, will start warm favourites.

There is also a strong foreign entry for the Diamond Sculls including three Americans, three Canadians, and one Brazilian.

The three American crews, Browne and Nichols, Kent School and Tabor Academy are the big threat to British crews for the Thames Challenge Cup.

The Swiss pair and four are likely to complete the double in winning the Goblets and Stewards' Cup respectively.—Ruter.

Mlle. Jedzrejowska

F. H. D. Wilde and Miss M. Whitmarsh (England) beat J. Borotra (France) and Miss Susan Noel (England) 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

GONSALVES AND REMEDIOS SHINE FOR THE RECREIO IN TENNIS MATCH

(By "Veritas")

A. V. Remedios and J. Gonsalves, who took three sets from U.S.R.C. yesterday in an "A" Division League tennis match, were not only the outstanding personalities of the encounter, but gave a display worthy of placing them in the forefront of Hongkong's men's doubles partnerships.

For sometime now Club de Recreio has recognised that Remedios and Gonsalves are the two most-improved players in the club, but the public has had but fleeting opportunities of making any judgment. Yesterday it was left to two pressmen to endorse the club's opinion.

Personally I was so impressed that one big desire now is to see this couple matched against the Tsui brothers. There is every promise of the encounter being the season's best set in league tennis.

The effectiveness of Remedios and Gonsalves can well be gauged when it is remarked that whereas A. V. Gonsalves and C. A. Barreto and H. A. Barros and J. J. Remedios lost to L. Goldman and A. L. Sullivan by scores of 1-6, and 4-6 respectively, Remedios and Gonsalves beat this strong couple 6-2. And it was accomplished so quietly but efficiently that the set was over almost before one had realised it had started.

ASIDUOUS PRACTICE

These two players have progressed because of asiduous and intelligent practice. This is clearly shown by their complete understanding. Both make interceptions at the net with precision and confidence which can only result from long and careful training.

There were times during the three sets yesterday when Remedios flashed out strokes deserving the appellation of brilliant. His volleysing was not only reliable, but more often than not point-winning. His was an attacking style with the weight of the body and snap of the wrist well all the strokes.

Gonsalves, rather less adventurous, some appeared to play secondary part only because there was not the same audacity of purpose behind his work. But he scored lots of aimes with perfectly placed shots and was clearly prominent for the manner in which he created openings for Remedios.

Recreio were one short of their usual team which demanded the inclusion of J. J. Remedios, a "B" Division player. But they did not suffer thereby and altogether impressed as being a very useful team.

It is true that A. V. Gonsalves, Barreto and Barros have played better, just as it is indisputable that they can play better. Volleysing was not only reliable, but more often than not point-winning. His was an attacking style with the weight of the body and snap of the wrist well all the strokes.

It is difficult to imagine the Recreio losing more than one match this season, and even that is by no means a foregone conclusion.

DEMSEY IS STILL BOXING IDOL OF U.S.

(By Trevor Wignall)

Flint (Michigan), June 9. JACK DEMPSEY, in New York last Friday, gave me an hour to pack bag to accompany him to this town that is almost solely dedicated to the making of motor-cars.

It took us more than twelve hours to reach Detroit by train, and from there, thanks to a dare-devil driver, we did sixty-six miles by road in one hour.

I have no wish to repeat this more than mile-a-minute performance.

The occasion of our visit was the final of a boxing tournament, confined to employees of General Motors, which Dempsey refereed.

Preliminaries attracted more than 30,000 spectators, and yesterday's event was watched by 30,000, which was only 10,000 short of the total number of men and women employed by General Motors in Flint.

The tournament was one of the best between amateurs I have witnessed, but much more interesting than the bouts was the rapturous reception given everywhere to Dempsey.

THE WELCOME

We were met by a large delegation at Detroit early yesterday morning, but here almost the whole town turned out to give him a welcome. As his advertised companion, I had to share in everything, these attentions being frequently embarrassing.

I wrote recently that Primo Carnera, also a former world champion, is boxing's forgotten man. Dempsey is infinitely more popular to-day than ever he was when he held the title, which he lost to Gene Tunney several years ago.

When he is not managing his highly prosperous New York restaurant he travels about the United States acting as referee.

It is worthy of mention that the fee he receives for these engagements is more than some boxers earn during their careers.

At a big dinner here last night he made a speech that largely explains his popularity. He called himself one of the world's luckiest men because on the eve of his forty-first birthday he is well off, has a well-paying business, is in excellent health, is happily married and has a twenty-two-months-old daughter whom he idolises.

A sidelight on his character concerns his baby girl Joan. When she was born Dempsey transferred her to the whole interest in the sweets and chocolate stall in his restaurant.

From this she draws an annual income of £2,500 and is regarded as the youngest income tax payer in America.

She will be a rich young woman by the time she comes of age, but she will never during her lifetime be able to draw on the capital. The interest, however, should more than satisfy her wants.

Dempsey let me into one secret. Within a few weeks he is expecting an addition to his family.

HIS PROBLEM

What is puzzling him now is the name of the newcomer if, as he and his wife hope, the baby happens to be a boy.

In Detroit I found that the sole topic of conversation is the trial of the club.

ARSENAL FINED £250

Arsenal Football Club, the Cup-holding team, was fined £250 at a meeting of the Football League Management Committee, in London, on the ground that they played weak teams in certain League matches.

The club immediately decided to appeal against the decision.

Arsenal, who had been champions for the three previous seasons, finished sixth in the League table.

It is a rule of the League that clubs must play their strongest teams in League matches. In 1924 Newcastle United were fined £750 for playing weak teams in seven League matches.

EXPLANATIONS

It is understood that evidence was given on behalf of the Arsenal by Mr. Edwards; Mr. George Allison, manager; Mr. Tom Whittaker; and the club's medical officer.

They gave their reasons and

arnera, Punch Drunk, Cross-Eyed, Talks To Wignall

(By Trevor Wignall)

New York, June 8. Primo Carnera, beaten at Brooklyn just over a week ago by Negro Roy Haynes, has been seized by "punch drunkenness." He is lying semi-paralysed in an Italian hospital in New York, but when I visited him this afternoon the first things I observed were that his eyes have become crossed, his speech is grotesquely thickened, and he has difficulty in moving his head.

hen Leroy Haynes beat him for second time at Elberts Field, Brooklyn, on Wednesday of last week he was reviled and hissed and spat at as he was assisted to his dressing-room.

esterday he was X-rayed, and as he was ordered to hospital definitely for observation and a possible operation.

was late in the afternoon when, after a long search, I tracked him down.

"BLACK-BLANKET" is "punch drunkenness" has left helpless except for his arms. The whole thing happened so suddenly at Brooklyn," he said, that I could not understand it. "I was moving towards Haynes when something like a black blanket dropped over my eyes.

"I know I was hit, but it was not a heavy punch. I fell, of course, but I had not been on the canvas our seconds before I knew I could not rise. All the life seemed to have been squeezed out of me."

The spectators thought I had falt or was engaged in a fake, but even as they booted and howled I realised I was paralysed. I have had some bad days since, worse nights, but I am glad now to be out of the boxing racket; I never really liked it and was never fit for it, for I hated hurting my opponents.

"THE FOOLS!"

Some people said I could not punch—but why did not the fools know that if I had hit with all my power I would have broken necks and spines.

"When Ernie Schäaf died after a contest with me I nearly died too, so greatly was I disturbed. They called me an animal, but the only time I went properly mad was in my first fight with Strubing which you saw at the Albert Hall. It was you who first put me on the boxing map, and I am glad you are the first reporter to see me now at I am out of the rotten game."

"Yes, I have some money, but all am looking forward to now is the day that will take me back to Italy. I have my way I shall never watch another fight. I am only twenty-eight, but I have had all I can stand."

The jeering did hurt me, and the moving away of people who called themselves my friends, and who were glad enough of my company when I was sitting on top, also wounds, but I suppose I must put up with that.

"This is a rather nasty end, but am very hopeful that within a few weeks I will be well again. Then I will again visit London, but not as little Primo Carnera, the fighter."

Some of those who have been connected with him have crossed him off their books. For the majority he has made considerable money, but few have even shown him the poor reverence of easing his mental torture with a bunch of flowers or call on the telephone at his bedside which he ceaselessly watches.

Carnera did not go up quite like a rocket, but his descent has been quicker than any rocket ever accomplished. A few days ago the New York State Commission decided to bar him from further fighting in this country. This will be taken up by other controlling bodies.

NO REGRETS

But Carnera does not care. He does not regret having left the circus in France to taste of the transient popularity that sport so lavishly gives, and that it so cruelly takes away.

He quite rightly says that if he had not become a boxer he would have missed the wonders of the world, would have been denied the intoxicating pleasure of listening to delirious cheering.

But there is rebellion and anger in his heart at the way he has so quickly dropped out of sight. There is no pity for him, and that is why he will insist on being carried on a stretcher to the Italian liner Conte di Savoia next Saturday week.

The one person he wants to see in all the world is his mother, who lives in an elaborate house he built for her at Segnali, Italy.

Man-mountain reduced to a hulk—vision distorted, one leg paralysed.

THE KING AND YACHTING.

KEEN INTEREST IN CRAFT

ACTIVE PATRONAGE AND HELP.

The King has become Admiral of the Royal Yacht Squadron. While it is early to speculate the course he will adopt towards yachting, we may assume reasonably that His Majesty's keenness for the sport will remain undiminished, and that active patronage and practical help will be given in promoting an even wider interest in recreation so essentially British and an expression of our natural heritage—a traditional love of sea and ships.

Although the King did not take a too active part in yacht racing as Prince of Wales, and the reasons were obvious while his father lived, he has always shown a general interest in the sport, and wherever possible gave famous yacht clubs Royal patronage, and in the case of the "little" yachts, the international 14-foot dingshies, takes a big practical part in their sporting fortunes by donating the Prince of Wales' Cup (still to be known by this name), the blue riband among international dinghies. The King thus showed his traditional desire to foster and encourage the sport of small boat racing, knowing full well as a sportsman the courage, physical fitness, and ability in seamanship required of those who race these tiny craft.

The King, as Prince of Wales, also was commodore of at least three famous clubs—the Royal Thames Yacht Club, the Royal Western Yacht Club (Plymouth), and the Royal Cornwall Yacht Club—and patron of many royal regattas. Last season His Majesty took an added interest in racing among the big international classes, and as commodore of the Royal Thames Yacht Club gave a special Jubilee cup for a race around the Isle of Wight for the "J" and International 12-metre classes.

A DRIFTING MATCH

King Edward occasionally raced aboard Britannia during Cowes Week, but was rarely fortunate in the choice of a day, as it was seldom "Britannia's" weather, meaning bad gale, and racing became a bit tedious. On one occasion I remember the King having a very soft day when aboard Britannia, written correspondent of the London Observer. It was stillness and stifling hot in the Solent. The "J" class more or less drifted on to the Solent Banks Buoy with the tide, and there kedged till the tide turned.

I was aboard Astra, kedged almost abreast of Britannia, and felt sorry for the Royal yachtsman striking such a tame patch, especially as the Prince had come down from London that morning by air to take part in the race. However, the King enjoyed himself, as is his natural habit of making the best of every situation, and squatted on the counter with his father's guests, apparently recounting good stories, by the rippling laughter which came across the narrow stretch of water separating the other yachts from Britannia.

With his passion for extending sport among youth, I feel sure small boat sailing will be advocated by the King as one of the essential sporting expressions of a virile nation. We shall witness an extension of racing among youth, even school boys, as a result of our Sovereign's sporting advocacy.

That King Edward has a genuine love of the sea is only too apparent, but he has probably "cruised" some 200,000 miles in all sorts of craft to the furthest ends of the world, and it must not be forgotten that His Majesty has cruised extensively in yachts off the coast of Spain and in the Mediterranean, as recently as last September.

LOVE OF THE SEA

His Majesty's love of the sea and its moods are seldom revealed in his speeches, but I well remember his letting himself go when receiving the Freedom of Portsmouth, and painting a vivid word-picture of arriving back in Spithead after a long voyage as one could wish to hear, and which was a happy revelation to his great audience of our greater naval port. It has been hinted that a happy gesture for the future of yacht racing would be for the King to commission the building of a new "J" class yacht, thus continuing the native interest in our national sea sport bequeathed by his father. A Royal "J" class racing at all the Regattas would be of great interest.

In the postponed match between J. F. Lunney and E. J. Edwards, the former won on Monday on the Talcott R.C. green by 21 shots to 12.

THE "TELEGRAPH'S" FOUR-DAY SERIAL

SILLY BILLIES

Fictionised from the RKO-Radio, Wheeler-Woolsey Comedy, Coming to Hongkong Shortly.

CHAPTER II

On this sunshiny afternoon the Little Towners were thinking about the Indians. They were drunk with excitement—the West's new name for excitement.

Either they had just gotten the news that the California gold rush was over and they had just heard that Doc and Roy were on their way. For every Little Towner, except one, was preparing to get out of town. That one was "Big Tom" Little, who owned the town and half the Indians' wives.

Little was striding up and down the crowded street, getting in everybody's way, desperately trying to persuade them to stay home, not to go to California.

"I'm telling you," Little shouted a little, "you'll never get there! No wagon train that ever left here was ever heard from again."

"We ain't a-worrying!" the excited crowd shouted in reply.

"You'll be sorry!" Big Little taunted.

"You're just mad because you won't have anyone to rent your buildings to," called Lem Prouty. Lem was the village blacksmith. And the Indians always referred to him as the "great white father," which was something Lem never could understand. He never even got a hint from looking at him eighteen children!

"The Indians are on the warpath!" Little persisted.

"Don't you worry about us," put in another future grapefruit grower. "Hank Bewley'll get us through. They say he's one of the best scouts in those here parts."

That was true. Bewley was one of the best scouts. But it all depended on what he was scouting for. Right now he was under the table in the back room of the XX (the Double-cross) Saloon, scouting for his pal, "Trigger." Only Trigger didn't live there any more. After ten days, Trigger had come to and decided to go home. He was no barfly.

Disgusted, Bewley tossed down a dozen Mexican Martinis, and rolled over in his seat, clutching upon the end of a covered wagon, he ordered the crew to gather around.

He was about to make a speech. To these roving ranchers, Bewley was a combination of "Little Eva," Napoleon, and the Detroit "Tigers."

They trusted him, praised him, but never leaned him money. He was their friend, their leader, their guide, their pals-wally. As Hank stood there on the wagon the crowd cheered and shouted. Whooping it up for dear old Bewley!

"My friends," the scout began,

"We're pulling out of here at dusk!"

(Cheers.) "Remember! It takes provisions and equipment to link the West.

(More cheers.) And PLENTY of wine!" (Groans.)

At this high (light in his speech,

Bewley spied his pal, Trigger, weaving in and out of the cuspidors in front of the local barber shop. After shouting a few more orders to the crowd,

Bewley jumped off the wagon and hurled over his shoulder:

"Yeah!" Trigger replied quietly.

"This is the trip'll be as easy as the last one, I guess!"

"There's nothing to worry about,"

Bewley assured. "We lend the wagon to him into Long Gulch and Chief Cyclone and his warriors will be there in ambush. When it's over, we get the cash—they get what's left."

Trigger was still a bit uneasy, and unsteady, too.
